Book Club Adventure!

This task will be an ongoing reading task that will take 4 weeks to complete. You will choose Book Club Adventure as a reading choice on your Choice Board for the next 4 weeks. **

Hey Kids! Welcome to the Book Club Adventure Experience!

For this task, you will get to choose a chapter book to read and explore. You can choose a chapter book from your home, or you can go on to Epic Reading by following this link www.getepic.com to access a HUGE online library FULL of fantastic choices.

Remember the Five Finger Rule when choosing a book that is Just Right for you!

The Five Finger Rule

Step 1: CHOOSE a book you want to read.

Step 2: Open the book to the MIDDLE.

Step 3: READ the entire page.

Step 4: For every word that you don't know or have trouble sounding out, put up a FINGER as you read.

2-3 Fingers Just Right

4 Fingers: Challenging

5+ Fingers Too Hard
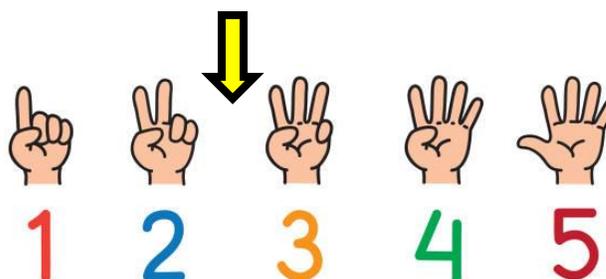

Now that you have chosen a book, we need to figure out how many pages you will need to read each week. We will use division to do this!

We are going to do 4 weeks' worth of reading, so we need to divide the book into 4 sections. We do this by counting how many total pages are in our book and dividing that number by 4.

Example: If my book has 100 total pages, I will calculate 100 divided by 4. My answer is 25. This means, I need to read 25 pages each week. Now, let's go!

Book Club Adventure – Week One –

Our first Reading Strategy we will be exploring is Making Predictions.

Take a look at the helpful poster below to get some background information about what Making Predictions means! I'll let you read it and I'll meet you at the top of the next page!

Making Predictions

A prediction is a guess about what will happen next in the story. You can use pictures or text clues to help you make your predictions

Here are some ways to start your predictions:
- I predict that…
- I think _____ will happen because….
- When I read _____, it makes me think _____ will happen.
- I bet the character will…
- I wonder if _____ will happen next.

When can I make a prediction?

Before Reading	Look at the title and the pictures to help you make predictions.
During Reading	Stop every few pages to make a prediction about what will happen next.
After Reading	Think: Did I make accurate predictions? What clues helped me predict what would happen next?

Welcome back!

Now we know that a prediction is a guess about what will happen in the story. This week, we are going to make predictions 3 different times.

Before we start reading our book, we are going to make a Before Reading prediction. For this task, we will do a Book Cover of Predictions!
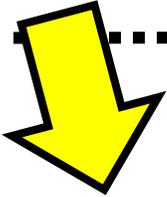

Book Cover of Predictions - Before Reading -

1. Directions: Look at the cover of the book you are about to read. In the box below, write some phrases (you can add pictures, too) to show what you predict this book might be about, who the characters are and where the story might take place.

Hi again!

I see you made some great predictions about our story based on the book cover. Are you ready to start reading? These next predictions we make are going to be During Reading predictions. This means, you will read your first section of pages and stop along the way to make predictions about what you think will happen next!

Passage Predictions – During Reading –

2. Directions: You can go ahead and start your book. When you think you're at a good spot to make a prediction, pause your reading. You can make a prediction about a character, about the setting, or about any upcoming events in the story. Make sure you remember the pages where you stopped, so you can complete the activities below.

A.) Page number where I stopped to predict: ☐
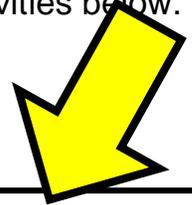

My prediction #1:

B.) Page number where I stopped to predict: ☐

My prediction #2:

Wow! You are really getting the hang of making predictions! I'm impressed! I love your detailed thoughts about your reading.

Now that we have finished the first section of our book, we will do some reflection and make an After Reading prediction.

Reflections – After Reading –

3. Directions: It's time to do some reflection! Answer the questions in the box below while thinking back on what you just read.

a) Which details from the reading were similar to what you predicted?

b) What clues in the reading helped you make your predictions?

c) Which details from the reading were different than you predicted?

d) What do you think will happen in the second section of our book?
You're a great Passage Predictor! I can't wait to work with you on our next reading strategy next week! See you soon!
